Operations to begin by end of the year

After years of extensions and delays, a change in ownership and court hearings brought on by the opposition, construction on Glenrock's Pioneer Wind Farm is well underway and right on schedule for the projected end of year operational deadline, company officials said.

Located on Grant and True ranches near Mormon Canyon Road, all major components for the project, including the wind turbines, have been delivered, according to a spokesman for sPower, the current owner.

"All (46) turbines have been erected and the facility expects to be operational by the end of the year," Peter Pawlowski said.

The project has implemented all necessary improvements to Mormon Canyon Road, a requirement of the county permit. The last and final step is to receive the approval for the "incidental take" permit that will allow for

Preparations for 2017 solar eclipse underway

By Sandra Mudd
sandra@douglas-budget.com

Eclipse event planners in Converse County say they are feverishly working with businesses, civic clubs and individuals to prepare for the influx of tourists next August.

The first question they are asking is this: Is your business ready for an event of this magnitude? The Wyoming Eclipse Festival team (which already includes Casper, Glenrock, Douglas and Esterbrook and is sure to include more communities) is working to get the ball rolling and to make sure the answer is "yes."

Their first planning meeting, called "Success On The Center Line," was held earlier this month in Casper. Participants talked about all the things businesses can do to make sure they are initiating best practices and offering ideas on how to prepare for and accommodate the influx of people. They said they are also offering ideas about making sure every business from Glendo to Casper is adequately prepared.

Why teal pumpkins?

By Phillip Harnden
phill@glenrockind.com

One-in-13 children this year will be picking through their Halloween candy, unable to eat a majority of their sweet loot. But a teal pumpkin may help them enjoy the holiday and keep them a bit safer.

Putting a teal painted pumpkin by the front door indicates that the home offers non-food alternatives for allergy sufferers.

The Teal Pumpkin project was started by FARE (Food Allergy Research and Education) to help the millions of food allergy sufferers enjoy the holiday a little more.

Offering non-food treats for Halloween allows allergy sufferers to join in the traditional trick-or-treating without getting rid of all their treats.

The Teal Pumpkin Project was started in 2014 by the Food Allergy Community of East Tennessee and quickly became a national trend in 2015.

This corridor alone can anticipate 100,000-plus tourists, according to Glenrock Community Development Director Kasey Drummond.

Some of the key items discussed included:

- campgrounds/sanitation/showers;
- safety (law enforcement/medical/fire/EMT);
- transportation (shuttles/bikes/parking);
- food and vendors (restaurants and grocery stores);
- and cell phone/wireless/internet services.

One idea presented by Drummond is that in addition to outside food vendors, local entities such as churches, non-profits and school groups can offer spaghetti dinners or pancake breakfasts to make money for their causes.

Glenrock's motels and RV parks are already booked for the three day festival, so officials will also be reaching out to individual landowners with several acres to see if anyone is interested in renting out a space for RV/Camping that week, Drummond said.

Additionally, Douglas, Glenrock, both chambers of commerce, Rolling Hills and Esterbrook are combining efforts to create a Converse County Eclipse website, according to Drummond.

Jen Womack of Sagebrush Marketing has been hired to build the site, and community members and business owners can expect to see it up and running sometime around the first of the year.

Glenrock is also in the beginning stages of organizing an Eclipse Committee.

"All are welcome and encouraged to join," Drummond said. "We can't do this alone. It's going to take several hours of planning, marketing and volunteer hours to make this event successful for Glenrock. We will be holding several meetings, workshops, etc., to get our local businesses on board and prepare them as best as we can."

For more information or to join the group contact Kasey Drummond at kdrummond@glenrock.org

Roughly 8 percent of children have a food allergy in America and the symptoms can range from itchy mouth to anaphylaxis and death. According to FARE food allergies among children have risen 50% between 1997 and 2011. And it continues to be a problem.

FARE's website says it is easy to participate. Just offer a non-food alternative for trick-or-treaters such as small toys like glow sticks, pencils, erasers, mini-Slinkies etc.

Then paint a pumpkin teal and put it by your front door on Halloween.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE WYOMING CONSTITUTION TO BE VOTED ON AT THE GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 8, 2016

Underlined words would be added to existing law. Words stricken through will be removed.

Currently, the Wyoming Constitution allows the legislature to authorize the investment of public employee retirement systems funds and permanent state funds in equities, such as stock or shares in private or public companies. Permanent funds of the state include funds designated as permanent funds by the Constitution. The Wyoming Constitution does not allow the state to invest any other funds in equities. The adoption of this amendment would allow the legislature, by two-thirds vote of the members of both houses, to authorize the investment of additional specified state funds in equities.

Article 16, Section 6. Loan of credit; donations prohibited; works of internal improvement.

(a) Neither the state nor any county, city, township, town, school district, or any other political subdivision, shall:

(i) Loan or give its credit or make donations to or in aid of any individual, association or corporation, except for necessary support of the poor; ~~, nor~~ or

(ii) Subscribe to or become the owner of the capital stock of any association or corporation, except that:

(A) Funds of public employee retirement systems and the permanent funds of the state of Wyoming may be invested in such stock under conditions the legislature prescribes;

(B) The legislature may provide by law for the investment of funds not designated as permanent funds of the state in the capital stock of any association or corporation and may designate which of these funds may be invested. The legislature may prescribe different investment conditions for each fund. Any legislation establishing or increasing the percentage of any fund that may be invested under this subparagraph shall be passed only by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of all the members of each of the two (2) houses voting separately.

(b) The state shall not engage in any work of internal improvement unless authorized by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the people.

I appreciate your continued support and vote!

Perspective

Which who are you?

Dale Steenbergen
Guest Column

I am sure as children we all read, or as an adult we read to our children or grandchildren the story of Horton Hears a Who. Horton is an elephant that hears a tiny community, Whoville, on a flower but everyone around him thinks he has gone off his rocker because they can't hear a thing. Those around Horton tie him up and start dragging him toward the pot to boil his flower in oil. Horton fights for all he is worth and the Mayor of Whoville enlists everyone to say, "We are here! We are here!" By the end of the story, one small child is not shouting. When they finally get him to join the crowd, the noise becomes loud enough for everyone to hear. Horton is redeemed, Whoville is saved, and the animals that thought Horton crazy finally realized the error in their ways.

Life is certainly more complicated than a children's story, but sometimes nobody can teach us a lesson as well as Dr. Seuss. Horton was committed to his cause. When everyone around Horton doubted him, condemned him, mocked him, and even threatened his physical well-being, he stayed committed to his cause, to what he knew was right. Your Chamber of Commerce should always strive to be like Horton. We should be highly aware of the activities around us, always paying special attention to the details so that we recognize challenges and problems to respond in a way that shows commitment and resolve for what we know is right. We should also be like Horton when Facebook goes nuts, the press has missed the facts, or when we are getting a "bad rap". If the math has been done and the facts are known to us, we should stand with resolve to do what is right for our members and our community. Certainly, we can never be as strong as the ideal of a hero in a child's storybook, but we can aspire to stand up with the same tenacity and commitment as Horton in every obstacle we face.

What about the Whos? The Whos play a much different role in the story, but there is much to be learned from them as well. The community is ultimately saved because every Who pitched in and made noise. Living in a small state and mid-size town, we have a lot in common with the Whos. In a world that responds to power and noise, we have neither the luxury, nor the opportunity, for someone else to do the work for us. We must band together as a unit if we are to progress as a community. The question for us becomes, "who is not making noise?" Who is not willing to step up and support efforts to make our social, business and political systems better?

The question is, are you the "Who" that stands by when bad decisions get made in government? Are you the "Who" that doesn't engage in the discussion of improved education for our kids? Are you the "Who" that thinks supporting military missions and men and women in uniform in our community is someone else's job? Perhaps it goes so far as, are you the "Who" that didn't vote in the last election? All of the above are issues that require everyone's attention. We need you if we are going to make a more vibrant community. We need you if we are going to elect forward thinking honorable representatives to public office. We need you if we are going to deal with social problems like childhood poverty and homelessness. Yes, we need all of us if we are going to achieve the levels of success that our communities are capable of achieving.

Horton and the Whos ended up making a great team. Horton was literally the elephant in the room with enough size, strength, and commitment to lead the effort, but he could not succeed alone. Horton needed the Whos, every single one of them, fully engaged and dedicated to reach the goal. It is no different for your community. Your Chamber is an organization built to have the size, strength, and commitment to organize and lead efforts. However, without our members working with us to make things happen, the organization will waiver and become stagnant. The question is "which kind of Who are you?"

(Dale Steenbergen is the Greater Cheyenne Chamber of Commerce president)

Hunters, anglers, outdoorsmen ... We want you to prove it

This is the time of year when many tales are told. You shot the biggest, baddest bull elk on the mountain and you can't wait to show your friends.

It had like 20-foot antlers, did it not?

Or do you remember that time you pulled a whale out of the river? You fought that thing for hours and had to shoot that trout with a harpoon. You know, the one you always tell your buddies about at the bar?

Or how about that time you climbed the highest peak in Wyoming and it only took you 23 minutes? You said you were higher than the clouds and it was minus-80 degrees up there.

We think you should also show us.

Prove it, if you will.

All kidding aside, The Sentinel wants your photos. We want to show the community your hobbies and the thrill of your outdoor adventure. We realize how important the outdoors are to people in the Cowboy State, especially this time of year. And we also know that every time you bring down that trophy game or reel in that giant fish, you are whipping out that cell phone to take a shot.

We want your photos, but we also would love to hear your story. Was this your son's first hunting trip? Did you see a mountain lion on your first camping trip of the fall? Did your fire off a beautiful 400-yard shot?

Hunting, fishing and the great outdoors are a staple of the community. Everyone knows a hunter. And we all know that some of the greatest stories ever told come right from their camouflaged heart.

We aren't asking you to tell us your secret spot, you know, the one that has elk as far as the eye can see? We just want to hear your tale. And you better have the pictures to prove it.

Each year, we publish a hunting guide, which shows hunt areas, talks about what game is roaming where and where the top fishing holes in the county are. We would like to make it more personalized. In other words, we want the stories to come from your mouth, not ours.

Happy hunting, fishing, hiking, and most importantly, storytelling. We can't wait to hear yours.

— Cody Tucker

Your Thoughts

Not passing Medicaid expansion hurts us all

TO THE EDITOR:

It's shocking that we're still just talkin', not yet walkin' Medicaid expansion.

Those who think it's only about insurance coverage don't see the proverbial forest. It directly and indirectly affects quality of life for every Converse County resident.You pay in greater overall costs, then in higher premiums and co-pays when delivery systems must absorb uncompensated care.

Still, working poor, disabled and elderly are not adequately tended. Indirect costs have far-reaching after-effects. Services availability, especially certain specialized and emergency treatments, remain limited here, keeping travel to Colorado unavoidable. Meanwhile, the quality of accessible care continues to suffer.

We must ensure that hospitals, clinics, pharmacies and private practices are strong, ready when needed and keep medical professionals on the job here, not fleeing south.

Health services providers overwhelmingly favor expansion. A healthy workforce is as essential as good roads, schools, recreation options and tax relief. Removing any budget burden from the disadvantaged enhances the economy because they spend in their own communities, not neighboring states.

Investments in the well-being of people are prudent and indispensable. It's why MedEx is soundly supported by businesses and associations clear across Wyoming. Government services keeping communities vigorous weaken with each cut.

Voters of all persuasions see expansion as vital and viable to ease the state's financial crisis. Stress from battles over adopting this measure diminishes the joy of living amidst Wyoming's beauty. Failure to find consensus, loss of trust in representatives, dashed hopes of infirmed and their families undermine peace of mind for us all.

Geri Maria Johnson,
Campaign to Pass,
Medicaid Expansion, Cheyenne

Thank you, mayor, council

I would like to thank the Mayor of Glenrock and City Council for their continued support of the Rec Center, the programs we offer and recreation as a whole in the community of Glenrock.

We have finished yet another season of baseball, flag football and midget football. The improvements the city has supported at South Rec and Town Park have not gone unnoticed by the Recreation Department and the community of Glenrock. The funds the City donated to improve the ball fields with new in field mix, the expansion of the concession stand and the concrete work in the spectator area made a great deal of difference this season for all our sports. This work helped to improve each activity we bring to the community utilizing South Rec and Town Park.

I would like to acknowledge the work Randy Rumpler did with his crew at the fields and Randy himself getting four new scoreboards donated by Arctic Oilfield, Napa Auto Parts, Ailport Ranch and CEPI Engineering.

The Recreation Department looks forward to working with the Mayor, City Council, Randy Rumpler and his staff in the future to continue making improvements to our city parks and recreation programs in Glenrock.

Very Truly,
Donnie Stewart
Recreation Director

a certain number of eagle turbine deaths without facing a potential penalty from federal regulators.

Eagle take permits are not required for wind developers, although they are becoming standard practice and Pioneer's contract with Rocky Mountain Power requires it.

Even so, in September 2015, Rocky Mountain Power Commercial Services Director Paul Clement testified before the Wyoming Public Service Commission that sPower wouldn't need to obtain the permit before becoming operational in December 2016 in order to meet the terms of their power purchase agreement.

"The project has submitted an application for an incidental take permit to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and to date no decision has been made as to the application," Pawlowski said.

Background

Wasatch Wind Intermountain LLC filed for a permit with the Wyoming Industrial Siting Council in February 2011 to build a pair of wind farms in Converse County.

The council approved the permit in July 2011 under two conditions - construction would begin within three years, and Wasatch would provide proof to the council within two years that it had sufficient financial resources to develop, construct, maintain, operate, decommission and reclaim the facility prior to the start of construction or the permit would be canceled.

From the start, Wasatch experienced bouts of financial instability while trying to meet the terms and deadlines of its power purchase agreement with Rocky Mountain Power.

In May 2013, Wasatch asked the council for a 10-month extension to meet the burden of financial proof requirement. They granted the request in June 2013, pushing the deadline out to May 2014.

In May 2014, Wasatch applied for a second extension. This time, asking for both the financial proof and construction commencement deadlines to be extended. The financial deadline was extended to August 2015 and the construction start date to February 2016.

In August 2015, FTP Power announced they had purchased the Pioneer Wind Park from Wasatch through its subsidiary, sPower of Utah.

Construction on the two substations to serve the Pioneer Wind Farm began in February 2016.

Fall Harvest!

I keep my kitchen in apple-pie order!

How's it coming along Pinch?

Just dandy!

What are you looking at? It's my job to pinch the crust to keep the juices in!

It's time for the fall harvest! I love going to pick apples in the orchards. This very important fruit has been grown and eaten by people for as long as anyone can remember. Apples were brought to America by the earliest European settlers. Thousands of different kinds have been grown all over the world. Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Jonathan and Rome Beauty are some of the favorites in North America. Apples, including the wild and crab varieties, are used to make many other foods. Fresh apple cider (juice) with a homemade doughnut is a fun fall treat. Do you like hot apple pie or applesauce? Apples are used for decorations and crafts, and are painted in pictures. People use apples in games. We use apples in our sayings, stories and folktales. One of our legends is about John Chapman or "Johnny Appleseed." He was an American pioneer who traveled and gave away and planted apple seeds. Hungry yet? See you in the orchard picking apples!

Hey! Why isn't anyone picking this apple? It's really tasty!

The Herders face-off against the Lyman Eagles on Friday as they continue their winning streak. The Eagles fell 22-12 on their own field against the Herders.

phillip@glenrockind.com

The winning streak continued Friday as the Herders finish 10 points ahead of Lyman. The Herders have won by as much as 63-0 against Thermopolis, so beating the Eagles 22-12 was certainly one of the closest game of their season so far.

The 22 points were earned by Cooper Fargen with two touchdowns and Garrett Schwindt with one.

But the big play was a 52-yard run on a 3rd and 7 by Schwindt, who dodged around left end blocks by Garrett Shellpflug and Josh Burrus. The blockers sprung open the hole and Schwindt was finally dragged down on the Eagles' 23. Schwindt added a 13-yard run on the next play, setting up his 3-yard TD dash. The two-point conversion put Glenrock up 14-12 a the end of the third quarter.

The finale held the Eagles scoreless, while the Herd controlled both ends of the field. A 13-yard counter play with a block from Logan Downs got the offense set up with a 4th and 2. Instead of punting, the Herd went for it, and Fargen, with blocks by Kai Sexson and Downs, nailed the first, leaving the team with a first and 10 to the line. Fargen made a 4-yard run for the TD, then followed that with a successful 2 point conversion.

Throughout the tight contest, the Herders attempted two throws against the pass-heavy Lyman. Both fell short, and one was intercepted.

Sticking to what they have mastered all season – the running game – the Herders rushed for 314 yards against Lyman's 148 yards, with of those 91 passing and 57 on the ground.

Schwindt once again rushed in the triple digits for 221 yards, averaging more than six yards per carry. Fargen followed with 91 yards in 24 carries, for an average of almost four yards each.

"We knew that Lyman defense was an aggressive gap controlled defense, but they did a lot more cutting of our offensive lineman and bottled us up pretty good in the first half. In the second half, we got on track and our team did a great job of answering their score with a score of our own. That is a hallmark of a good team. The final drive was a just a Herder-tough drive, and it used up most of the fourth quarter," said coach Ray Kumpula.

The Herders will be at home this week with Moorcroft. The Wolves will be bringing a 2-5 record with their only wins against 1A Lusk and 6th ranked Burns.

Cyclones disarmed quickly by No. 3 Glenrock

By Phillip Harnden
phillip@glenrockind.com

The Lady Herders exacted revenge on Southeast Saturday after losing to the Yoder Cyclones who had eked out a win against the Herd at Homecoming. After the purple ladies won the first two sets 25-20 and 25-17, the Cyclones rallied for a 25-22 win, but Glenrock turned it around in the fourth with a wide 25-13 victory.

The Herders went into the match ranked third in the 2A Southeast. The Cyclones were in second, yet the victory wasn't enough to reverse that ranking.

The ladies have two more matches before playoffs, but one is against 3A Wheatland Thursday at 4 p.m., which won't count toward conference standings. Their only one chance to move up to that coveted second spot in the 2A Southeast will be Saturday's match against No. 1 Pine Bluffs at home at 1 p.m.

The ladies have had a roller-coaster season with illness and injury hindering them mid-season. They are 4-3 in conference play, with a 10-14 overall record.

Public Notice...

PUBLIC NOTICE

Pursuant to the Wyoming Administrative Procedure Act and the Wyoming Public Service Commission's (Commission) Procedural Rules and Special Regulations, notice is hereby given of the Application of Rocky Mountain Power (RMP or the Company), for authority to adjust the Category 2 and 3 Demand-Side Management Surcharge Rates in Electric Service Schedule No. 191 – Customer Efficiency Service Charge.

RMP is a public utility as defined in Wyo. Stat. § 37-1-101(a)(vi)(C), subject to the Commission's jurisdiction pursuant to Wyo. Stat. § 37-2-112.

On September 30, 2016, RMP filed its Application requesting authority to adjust the non-residential small general service (Category 2) and non-residential large general service (Category 3) Demand-Side Management Surcharge Rates in Electric Service Schedule No. 191 – Customer Efficiency Service Charge. The Company is proposing in the alternative to either: [i] adjust the Schedule 191 Category 2 and 3 rates to 2.37% and 0.76%, respectively, if effective January 1, 2017, or, [ii] adjust the Schedule 191 Category 2 and 3 rates to the percentage amounts provided in Table 2 to the Application, depending on the approved effective date. RMP states that as of August 2016, the balancing account for Categories 2 and 3 are under-collected with balances of approximately of $1.26 million and $724,000, respectively, owing to the Company. Taking into account the current under-collected balances and the forecast DSM expenditures through December 2017, RMP states that the longer the current rates remain in effect, the greater the under-collected balances will be for Categories 2 and 3. To address the under-collected balances, RMP states an increase in rates is necessary to bring the balances down to an acceptable level. In order to lessen the impact on customers and keep rate increases to a minimum, RMP is proposing to recover the under-collected balances over a sixteen month period, using the forecast balance six months out from the effective date of the increase rates.

This is not a complete description of the Application. Interested persons may inspect the Application at RMP's business offices throughout Wyoming and at the Commission's offices in Cheyenne, Wyoming, during regular business hours.

Anyone desiring to file a public comment, statement, intervention petition, protest or request for a public hearing in this matter must do file with the Commission in writing on or before November 7, 2016. Any intervention request filed with the Commission shall set forth the grounds of the proposed intervention or request for hearing as well as the position and the interest of the petitioner in this proceeding.

If you wish to intervene in this matter or request a public hearing which you will attend and you require reasonable accommodation for a disability, call the Commission at (307) 777-7427 or write to the Commission, 2515 Warren Avenue, Suite 300, Cheyenne, Wyoming 82002. Communications-impaired persons may contact the Commission through Wyoming Relay at 711. Please mention Docket No. 20000-502-EA-16 (Record No. 14544) in your communications.
